  - Catechesis of the Good Shepherd In the Atrium the catechist (meaning: “the one who echoes”) will sit on the floor with the children near the work to be presented. She reads from the Holy Bible and then in her own words does a guided meditation on the scripture she just read. She listens to the child’s input, not correcting, but keeping the focus out in front for all. Then she brings out the manipulatives, identifies them for the children, and moves them appropriately during a second reading of the scripture. She may show the child accompanying work to go with the text. Then the child is free to work with the materials all by himself. We invite you to discover more!
